Teacher workshop

Come and discover everything you need to know about the fife and how to teach it. Liz Goodwin will reveal to you her sure-fire methods of sound production, holding the instrument, posture and note learning. The fife is an inexpensive, simple and extremely attractive way to introduce music making to children. You will discover a scheme of work which can last for a term or much longer and will lay down firm foundations for future flute playing and music making skills. The fife can be used for all ages in groups of all sizes or individual lessons.

- Children love the fife because it is simple and good fun to learn
- Parents love the fife because it is affordable and allows their child to demonstrate their interest in learning an instrument. After their child completes the course on the fife they are happy to invest in a good-quality instrument.
- Teachers love the fife because of all the above and it enables them to quickly build a teaching practice of keen pupils.
